

The attached file contains individual student submissions to the Department of Education concerning Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039.

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Martin Cabungcal
The Art Institutes
8605 W. Helen Ln
Glendale AZ 85305
Email: martin.cabungcal@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Mary Anderson
The Art Institutes
5114 Parrish street
Philadelphia PA 19139
Email: Maryanderson510@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Latoya Grant
South University
464 Holmestown Loop Rd
Midway GA 31320
Email: mdh52899@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Matthew Lawrence
The Art Institutes
3643 Morning Glory Street
Plumas Lake CA 95961
Email: mdlawrence@stu.aii.edu

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Megan Tollison
The Art Institutes
700 S 3rd St
Trlr 12N
Kingfisher OK 73750
Email: megantollison85@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Meg Dufour
Argosy University
30892 N 118th Lane
Peoria AZ 85383
Email: megdufour@stu.argosy.edu

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Melba Johnson
Argosy University
1180 University Drive
Atlanta GA 30306
Email: melbajohnson@stu.argosy.edu

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. melissa johnson
student
Argosy University
2920 South State St.

Apt 501
Chicago IL 60616
Email: melissa_johnson89@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Melissa Sweeney
Student
Argosy University
7217 Creekwood court
tampa FL 33615
Email: melissas0444@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Michelle Swanson
Argosy University
150 W St Charles Rd
#504
Lombard IL 60148
Email: michelle.swanson89@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Michelle Rivas
The Art Institutes
7152 Green Glen Ct
Rancho Cucamonga CA 91739
Email: MichelleRivas@stu.aii.edu

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Miles Carrington
The Art Institutes
Po box 370082
Montana CA 94037
Email: Miles.carrington@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Melanie Faithwalker
BA, MA, Certified in Research Assmnt/Measurement
Argosy University
8730 Pemberton Circle
Indianapolis IN 46260
Email: mimifaithwalker@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Audrienna Zeno
South University
841 Willowbrook Drive
Hinesville GA 31313
Email: miss_daisy03@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Melissa Wireman
South University
494 E ShellCracker RD.

Jesup GA 31545
Email: missywire@hotmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Michelle Dixon
Brown Mackie College
4900 Central Drive
Stone Mountain GA 30083
Email: mizzdixon31@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. MARKIA MILO
Argosy University
4645 arlington ave #24
Riverside CA 92504
Email: mmshawna28@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Taraja Thomas
The Art Institutes
75 buckingham drive
Willingboro NJ 08046
Email: monett@stu.aii.edu

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Monta Caley
Student
Brown Mackie College
3004 San Juan trails
Moore OK 73160
Email: montacal@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Naratiti Key
Brown Mackie College
3319 peppertree cir apt f
Apt f
Decatur GA 30034
Email: Monyanakey@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Megan Feldman
Argosy University
1562 Carol Anne Drive
Morris IL 60450
Email: mother_of_peace_87@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Parker
The Art Institutes
6492 Watson st
Union city GA 30291
Email: mr.rpiii@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Chelsea Eckert
South University
4303 Fenwick Village Dr
Savannah GA 31419
Email: mrs.chelsea.eckert@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Crystal Moon
Specialist US Army
Argosy University
902 18th ave
Honolulu HI 968164115
Email: mrscrystalmoon@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Jennie Harrison
Argosy University
105 Pipestone Drive
Summerville SC 29485
Email: MrsJenHarrison@aol.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality. This dream is one that many people in my family did not think would come true for me.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Lekeisha Brown
Argosy University
522 Bluesprings Ln
Quitman GA 31643
Email: ms_brown_86@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jannica Hoover
South University
4024 Kessler Ave #3305
Garden City GA 31408
Email: msarmystrong_07@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. michelle turner
South University
1545 dorchester village road
midway GA 31320
Email: mschellturner@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Melissa Dennis
The Art Institutes
234 S. Franklin Street
Shamokin PA 17872
Email: munkertz@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Racheal Mattingly
Argosy University
4197 creek trail se
acworth GA 30102
Email: mustardinjuly@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jason Zimmerman
The Art Institutes
2002 w shady glen ave
phoenix AZ 85023
Email: ndngambler@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Normandy Horn
Save Student Choice
South University
9 Wilamore Court
Columbia SC 29223
Email: normandyhorn@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. walter pinder
South University
1710 grove street
Savannah GA 31401
Email: nyscoro@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Tanya Delgadillo
The Art Institutes
11627 sparrow dr
Fontana CA 92337
Email: Oheeeey@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Rebecca Hendricks
Argosy University
4838 w Donner Dr
Laveen AZ 85339
Email: okhermana@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Orion Williams
Student
Brown Mackie College
2963 Fairton trail
Lithonia GA 30038
Email: orionwil@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Joshua Armsted
Argosy University
507 Hickory Club Drive
Antioch TN 37013
Email: osheanun@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Adriana Mendez
Argosy University
540 Herbert St
Pasadena CA 91104
Email: p.mendez.226@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student, Veteran, and father attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality. As a single father I am striving to set an example for my toddler. I want her to see that dreams can be achieved through hard work and perseverance. At Argosy, I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. Many others can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. PHILIP KOWALSKI
Argosy University
1066 GLASTONBURY RD
NASHVILLE TN 37217
Email: Pakman_52@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ksean Pierre
South University
7552 Licata St Apt A
Fort Stewart GA 31315
Email: patriotpierre253@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. phillup davenport
Argosy University
1532 california tr
plano TX 75023
Email: pd97407@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Lan Sutton
South University
236 Savannah Lane
Richmond Hill GA 31324
Email: peewhistles_momma@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Sergio Rivera
The Art Institutes
4762 w Sanna st
Glendale AZ 85302
Email: phxserg@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. shaine sampson
Brown Mackie College
7712 autry circle lot #304
douglasville GA 30134
Email: pvt.sampson@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Rafael Quiroz
The Art Institutes
1522 e. carter rd.

phoenix AZ 85042
Email: rafael_quiroz9@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ra'kysha Williams
South University
20 Bimini Dr.

Savannah GA 31419
Email: rakyshearn@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. RayJohn Eskridge
The Art Institutes
125 Cambon dr. Apt M-K
San Francisco CA 94132
Email: rayjohneskridge@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Bruce Ridenour
Argosy University
13110 West Lake Road
East Springfield PA 16411
Email: rebelthewrestler@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Remy Williams
The Art Institutes
8557 loretto ave
cotati CA 94931
Email: remyewilliams@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ronald Green
Student
Brown Mackie College
843 Stokeswood Ave
843 Stokeswood Ave
Atlanta GA 30316
Email: rirvinggreen@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Rachel Christian
Argosy University
157 Maxwell Chapel Road
Unionville TN 37180
Email: rlc00bba@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Phirun Roeun
The Art Institutes
37 Dewey Rd
Cheltenham PA 19012
Email: rmroeun@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Dori Chan
The Art Institutes
324 Palmetto Ave.

APT 161
Pacifica CA 94044
Email: rodichan@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Rodney Valines
Brown Mackie College
1733 Spring Hill Cove
Lithonia GA 30058
Email: rodney\_valines@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Amy Rouse
The Art Institutes
7931 w. Pinchot Ave
Phoenix AZ 85033
Email: Rousepurple925@verizon.net

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Oneisa Robertson
The Art Institutes
355 Serrano Dr
3B
San Francisco CA 94132
Email: rtiwana@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sarina Quezada
The Art Institutes
3721 callan blvd
South San francisco CA 94080
Email: Sabrina.quezada@hotmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Larry Saeyang
The Art Institutes
1310 redwood circle
San Pablo CA 94806
Email: Saeyangl@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institute of Tucson to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institute of Tucson where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Samantha MackeyWilson
The Art Institutes
6821 W Tombstone Way
Tucson AZ 85743
Email: samswphotography@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Sarah Ray
South University
93 Fairgreen St.

Pooler GA 31322
Email: sarahdabeara@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Sarah Gray
Miss
The Art Institutes
50 Curtmantle Rd
Mickleton NJ 08056
Email: sarahgray206@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. sara nega
student
The Art Institutes
1346 chestnut street
Philadelphia PA 19107
Email: saranega18@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Valerie Bynoe
Argosy University
3845 Michaels Creek Way
LOGANVILLE GA 30052
Email: savednbless@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. Secretary Duncan, I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to millions of students like me, unfairly denying us a choice in education and an opportunity to fulfill our career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sandra Casarez
Argosy University
Board St
East Hartford CT 06118
Email: scasarez32@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sekeitheia Thomas
Brown Mackie College
3567 B Clubhouse Circle East
Decatur GA 30032
Email: sekeitheithomas32@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. shanta branch
South University
251b. wilder drive
savannah GA 31401
Email: shantabbranch@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Shatara Brown
South University
28 Laurel Lane
Savannah GA 31407
Email: Shatarabrown45@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sherry Blair-Williams
Argosy University
4217 W. 99th st
Oak Lawn IL 60453
Email: shawilliams1@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Shay Ruiz
The Art Institutes
115 Becker St.

Boerne TX 78006
Email: shay.shay.ruiz324@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. shetara griffin
South University
5 brandle cove
savannah GA 31405
Email: shetaragriffin@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. DeJaunae Siders
The Art Institutes
2220 W Mission Ln Apt 3122
Phoenix AZ 85021
Email: sidersdejaunae@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Michele Clemons
Argosy University
3150 S Tamarac Drive
A102
Denver CO 80231
Email: silverbelles7@stu.argosy.edu

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Cindy Szemenyei
Student
Argosy University
6054 Ulysses Ave.

Firestone CO 80504
Email: silvermyst30@comcast.net

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Michael N Durham
Brown Mackie College
933 Brook View Ave
Doraville GA 30340
Email: Sirron107@aol.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. DAVID SKELTON
Argosy University
2453 Regent Lane
Hoover AL 35226
Email: skeltod@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Matt Rohrer
The Art Institutes
34 apple way
marlton NJ 08053
Email: slashrohrer@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Stacey Hall
South University
109 Fox Trace
Rincon GA 31326
Email: smhall109@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Stacy Smith
South University
9111 White Bluff Rd. Apt.138
Savannah GA 31406
Email: smith.stacy18@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Stephanie Mobley
Argosy University
19 Deer Path
Sparrowbush NY 12780
Email: smobley56@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Samantha Mortinsen
Argosy University
918 ford st
corona CA 92879
Email: smortinsen@hotmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Octavia Snyder
Argosy University
535 Williamshill In
Huger SC 29450
Email: snyderoctavia@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Ana Herrera
Argosy University
3515 Pleasantdale Rd
Doraville GA 30340
Email: soy.ariana@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Cynthia Robbins
Argosy University
947 Periska Way
Idaho Falls ID 83402
Email: sparklesnhatz@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sharon Bertsche
Argosy University
106 South 1st. Street
Haines City FL 33844
Email: ssbertsche@hotmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sonya Schlegel
Argosy University
210 Pine Bluff Rd
Albany GA 31705
Email: sschlegel@albanycsb.org

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. William Stenack
South University
180 Paradise trail
guyton GA 31312
Email: stenackw@aol.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Stephen Webb
South University
205 West Montgomery Crossroads Apt 808
Savannah GA 31406
Email: stephen.webb.8732@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Linda Huerta
Student
The Art Institutes
12059 ponderosa court
Fontana CA 92337
Email: Susieshuerta@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Syndell Efferson
South University
116 Horse Creek Road
lot38
Ludowici GA 31316
Email: syndell.efferson@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Tiffany Medlin
Argosy University
629 N. Town East Blvd
#126
Mesquite TX 75150
Email: T_Medlin87@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Tiffany Chiu
The Art Institutes
808 Leavenworth St.

apt.206
San Francisco CA 94109
Email: t072986@yahoo.com.tw

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Talia boyd
student
The Art Institutes
4248 powelton ave
Philadelphia PA 19104
Email: taliaboyd@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Tania Kemp
Doctoral Candidate
Argosy University
385 Marlborough St
Detroit MI 48215
Email: tania48080@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Carolyn Taylor
Student
Brown Mackie College
2901 Riverview Place
Jonesboro GA 30238
Email: tayclor2@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Taylar Wilkinson
South University
143 Wild Heron Rd.

Savannah GA 31419
Email: Taylar.Wilkinson@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Taylor Harms
The Art Institutes
314 Valencia Drive
south San francisco CA 94080
Email: Taylorsharms@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Tiffany Powell
Argosy University
7017 S. Priest Dr.

Tempe AZ 85283
Email: tdpowell@aii.edu

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. teisha ponder
student
Brown Mackie College
2135 Godby Rd
college Park GA 30349
Email: teishaponder01@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. theandre kimbrough
Brown Mackie College
1529 woodberry ct
mcdonough GA 30253
Email: theandrekimbrough@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. Secretary Duncan, I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to millions of students like me, unfairly denying us a choice in education and an opportunity to fulfill our career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Theresa Morales
The Art Institutes
5435 E Elena
Phoenix AZ 85016
Email: Theresa@DreamersEventPlanners.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jonathan Dorsey
South University
12 Belfair Drive
Savannah GA 31419
Email: Thestoryofdorsey@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Thomas Mireles
Sr.

Argosy University
13124 Dearbonne Drive
Del Valle TX 78617
Email: thosmireles@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Timothy Fulp
South University
18505 Pebble Lake Court
Tampa FL 33647
Email: tim.fulp@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Tim Nakamura
Argosy University
80530 Virginia Ave
Indio CA 92201
Email: tim.nakamura@imperial.edu

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Titus Thomas
Student
Brown Mackie College
1502 Deerwood dr
Decatur GA 30030
Email: titus876@live.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Toni Winston-Jackson
Argosy University
4309 Lindenwood Dr. Apt. 3A
Matteson IL 60443
Email: tn_wnstrn@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Tory Hampton
Argosy University
429 N 300 W
185
American Fork UT 84003
Email: torih27@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. James Anderson
Student
Brown Mackie College
14351 redvine road
Choctaw OK 73020
Email: Tosha.1976@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a becoming a Drug and Alcohol Counselor a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a position when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field of Psychology (Behavior Health), which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Tracey McClain
Argosy University
1206 S. Markoe St.

Phila. PA 19143
Email: traceymcclain1@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Sammie Hubbard
MA
South University
123 Heritage Way
Savannah GA 31419
Email: tre4040@hotmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Klitric Norman
student
Brown Mackie College
275 pinetree circle
Deatur GA 30032
Email: treecee15@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. tammy veneza
The Art Institutes
200 W. Washington Sq. Apt 1308
Philadelphia PA 191063547
Email: tveneza@me.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Tyler Hearn
graphic design
The Art Institutes
26266 woodview lane
Windsor VA 23487
Email: Tylerhearns123@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Tronne Moss
South University
109 Marian circle
Savannah GA 31406
Email: Tyrone.moss@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jerry Underwood
Student
Brown Mackie College
1392 East Washington Avenue
Atlanta GA 30344
Email: underwoodjerry34@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. vandie canty
Brown Mackie College
34 postelle st
34 postelle st
cartersville GA 30120
Email: vandie_canty@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Val Sorensen
The Art Institutes
205 River Oak Cove
Nashville TN 37214
Email: vcsorensen@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Amarilis Vega de Jesus
South University
11 Whitaker Way N
Richmond Hill GA 31324
Email: vega.amarilis@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Valerie Ekue
Grants Coordinator
Argosy University
157 Longtown Place Drive
Columbia SC 29229
Email: vekue@mailbox.sc.edu

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. vernice rice
Healthcare Admin
Brown Mackie College
568 Center Hill ave NW
Atlanta GA 30318
Email: vernicerice@yhao.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Veronica Perth
South University
2132 Alaska Street
Savannah GA 31404
Email: veronicapertha36@yahoo.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Valentin Garibay
Corporal USMC
The Art Institutes
5004 n crescent st
san bernardino CA 92407
Email: VGaribayjr@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. bryan vickery
South University
45 e. 55 st.

savannah GA 31405
Email: vickery.bryan619@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Vincent Smalley
Game art and design
The Art Institutes
2220 west mission lane apt 2035
Phoenix AZ 85021
Email: Vincentizer@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Vince Lee
The Art Institutes
2036 W Oregon Ave
Phoenix AZ 85015
Email: vinleolee@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Victoria Townsend
The Art Institutes
813 east high ave
Redlands CA 92373
Email: Vtvaanbrocc@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sarina Williams
South University
838 Sherman Ave
Savannah GA 31405
Email: w.sarina@yahoo.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. Secretary Duncan, I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to millions of students like me, unfairly denying us a choice in education and an opportunity to fulfill our career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. William Rhodes
Student
The Art Institutes
3437 Edenberry Ct.

Virginia Beach VA 23452
Email: william.rhodes1981@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Yvonne Williams
South University
486 Dave Williams Rd.

Midway GA 31320
Email: williamsy58@gmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Willie Williams
student
Argosy University
29 pleasant st.apr.b8
Marlborough MA 01752
Email: willie.williams.1955@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of the one course a month program they have that works with me also being a mom. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Allison McClary
Brown Mackie College
2718 Autumn Ridge Lane
Lawrenceville GA 30044
Email: ladyavm2005@aol.com
(678)629-8119

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. D'Nashai Williams
The Art Institutes
7019 w 97th terr
overland park KS 66212
Email: wllmsshai@aol.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. woodrow wallace
Argosy University
11302 Homestead Dr.

Upper Marlboro MD 20774
Email: wwwood1@aol.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jesus Romero
The Art Institutes
810 Gonzales dr
San Francisco CA 94132
Email: Xsusroomeo@hotmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Argosy University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Argosy where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Argosy because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Argosy can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Argosy University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Argosy University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Andrew Yeager
Mr.

Argosy University
1201 Norris Ave
McCook NE 69001
Email: Yeagman2004@gmail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending South University to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at South where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend South because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of South can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at South University, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend South University because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. Secretary Duncan, I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to millions of students like me, unfairly denying us a choice in education and an opportunity to fulfill our career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Yvette Hampton
South University
Jones street 41 4
Claxton GA 30417
Email: Yvettehampton@ymail.com

Tuesday, May 13, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending Brown Mackie College to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at Brown Mackie where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Brown Mackie because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of Brown Mackie can attest to the fact that a degree from this college gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at Brown Mackie College, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend Brown Mackie College because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Zane Baize
Brown Mackie College
14000 Saw Mill Rd
Oklahoma City OK 73170
Email: zanebaize@outlook.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Mr. Josiah Martinez
The Art Institutes
310 arballo dr
Apt. M-h
San francisco CA 94132
Email: Zoramaster@hotmail.com

Wednesday, May 14, 2014

Ashley Higgins
U.S. Department of Education
1990 K Street, NW, Room 8037
Washington, D.C. 20006-8502

RE: Comments: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Gainful Employment [Docket ID ED-2014-OPE-0039]

Dear Ms. Higgins:

I am a student attending The Art Institutes to make my dream of a college education a reality.

I am enrolled at The Art Institutes where I am acquiring the education and the skills necessary to prepare me for a job when I graduate. I chose to attend Ai because of its reputation for providing a quality education in a field for which I have a passion. Graduates of The Art Institutes can attest to the fact that a degree from this university gave them the competitive edge to obtain their dream job in this tough job market. But as a current student at The Art Institutes, I'm worried that other students like me will not be able to have the same choices I did in pursuing their career goals due to a 'Gainful Employment' rule that the Department of Education has proposed which will only serve to limit student choice and opportunity.

The proposed rule would make programs like mine ineligible for financial aid if they fail to meet measurements that the Department of Education would impose were this rule to be adopted. This means that students who count on this aid would be denied the opportunity to attend the school of their choice. It would mean that students would have fewer options to acquire skills and training for meaningful and important professions.

For me, traditional college was not the best option to pursue my dreams. I chose to attend The Art Institutes because it offered me the programs and flexibility I wanted to secure the skills and training I need to pursue the career of my choice. I urge you and the Department of Education to consider that the proposed Gainful Employment rule would be detrimental to thousands of students like me. Please tell Secretary Duncan to reconsider this rule before millions of students are unfairly denied their choice in education and their opportunity to fulfill their career dreams.

Sincerely,

Ms. Zoe Rook arid
The Art Institutes
236 Lee Avenue
San Francisco CA 94112
Email: Zrookard@gmail.com

139 individual letters in this file.